

LEADWELL RETREATS

Personal Growth and Leadership Retreat for Men

In today's chaotic treatment industry, the stressors of the milieu, the high demand on your time pulling you in multiple directions, and the lack of professional nurturing and mentoring that allows you to step more fully into a leadership role, makes it difficult to envision and step into your best possible self. You crave an environment with the capacity to develop future leaders and pass down what you - and the industry - need to thrive.

But where can you acquire that mentoring? Using Sociometry and Psychodrama, in combination with effective tools from Positive Psychology and principles of Happiness at Work, this Men's Leadership Workshop will provide a safe and supportive environment to help you evolve, grow personally and professionally, and be on the cutting edge of improving the current leadership paradigm in the behavioral health industry. By providing leadership skills training and an opportunity to explore the personal blocks that can prevent you from reaching your potential, participants will have the opportunity to build their capacity for personal and professional expansion in their current and future selves.

Facilitator: Jean Campbell, LCSW, CIPP, TEP spent 11 years in the corporate sector in a variety of roles, including as Director of Operations for a multi-million dollar pharmaceutical advertising and marketing firm. In her 23 years in the behavioral health field, she has served as Family Program Director and Clinical Director, provided team building and organizational development in clinical, business and medical settings and has led ongoing training groups for professionals. Jean blends her clinical and business backgrounds, as well as her training in Sociometry, Psychodrama, Coaching, Somatic Experiencing and Positive Psychology to support leaders in their personal and professional growth, on both a micro and a macro level, and believes that what we can't do alone, we can do together.

Facilitator: Fernando Rodriguez, MBA, MA, CIPP, CPC has served in leadership roles in both clinical and operational aspects of the behavioral health industry over the last 14 years, in both community mental health and private chemical dependency facilities. He is cross-trained in multiple cognitive, psychodramatic and experiential therapeutic modalities, and is continues to pursue avenues of mending the gap between business disciplines and clinical services, especially as it pertains to, and affects, direct client care. Fernando is currently working in a behavioral consulting firm, facilitating interventions and providing systemic family work, and is also a PIVOT Advocate with individuals seeking to increase their relational alignment within themselves and those around them. He believes that everyone has a 100% chance to access their resilience, given the appropriately nurturing conditions.
